Grand Jury Begins Of Case Donation Its Investigation

Neff, Patman, Sheriff Whaley Say They Are Prepared to Reply To All Questions Put to Them

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury today began an inquiry into a $2,500 campaign donation rejected by Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) during Senate debate on the natural gas bill.

On hand to testify were three witnesses who said they were prepared to answer all questions and had nothing to conceal.

One was John M. Neff, Lexington, Neb., lawyer who left the $2,500 in Sioux Falls, S. D., as a contribution to Case's campaign.

Also on hand were Elmer Patman of Austin, Tex., like Neff an attorney for the Superior Oil Co. of California, and Sheriff Paul Whaley of Dawson County, Neb.

Senatorial investigators, who wound up a public hearing on the campaign fund offer yesterday, heard testimony that the $2,500 came from personal funds of Howard B. Keck, president of Superior Oil.

Neff told the senators no "strings" were attached to the money but he and Patman both said they would not have been interested in making a donation if they had not understood Case was for the bill to exempt natural gas producers from direct federal regulation.

Case in disclosing the offer said he had been inclined to favor the measure, but viewed the $2,500 as a signal of undue financial interest in its passage. He voted "no" when the senate passed the bill.

The witnesses were more communicative than the government officials handling the grand jury investigation. As is customary, they surrounded the proceeding with considerable secrecy.

The Justice Department, in fact, has never acknowledged publicly that a grand jury has been asked to look into the Case contribution to determine whether there was any violation of law in connection with activities centered on the gas bill.

The bill is now before President Eisenhower, who discussed it with Eisenhower, who discussed it with Keck and Patman testified the $2,500 came from Keck's personal funds and was not offered in an attempt to influence Case's vote.

Case said he was originally inclined to favor the bill, but changed his mind because it appeared to him that someone thought big profits for oil companies would result if the bill became law.

Neff and Patman remained under subpoena to the special Senate committee headed by Sen. George (D-Ga.).

Committee Counsel Charles W. Steadman said in a statement yesterday, however, that the group wants "to cooperate in every way with the Department of Justice in this matter" and had no objection to their testifying before the grand jury.

There was no word as to whether the grand jury's inquiry was confined to the Case incident or whether it might cover the whole field of lobbying for and against the gas bill.

Capacity Crowd Attends Sedalia Symphony Mon.

Zvi Zeitlin, guest artist, and the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra played to a capacity crowd Monday night in the orchestra's second concert of the season at the Smith-Cotton auditorium.

Harry Walch, president of the board of directors, expressed appreciation for the large attendance attending the two concerts. He also expressed, in his remarks during intermission, appreciation for the business firms who helped make the concerts possible and also provided the free tickets this season.

The program of the evening included three selections by the guest artist, Zvi Zeitlin, two movements from "Symphonie Espagnole" by Edouard Lalo, "Shepherd Song" (for unaccompanied violin) by Paul Ben-Haim, and "La Campanella" by Paganini. His encore was "habanera" by Ravel.

Symphony selections were "Ruy Blas Overture" by Mendelssohn, "Brigadoon" selections for orchestra by Frederick Lowe, three movements of "Symphonie Militaire" by J. Haydn and "January, February, March" by Don Gillis.

The Sedalia Symphony is in its 21st season and the third concert of this season will be on April 3 with Jeanene Dowis, pianist, as guest artist.

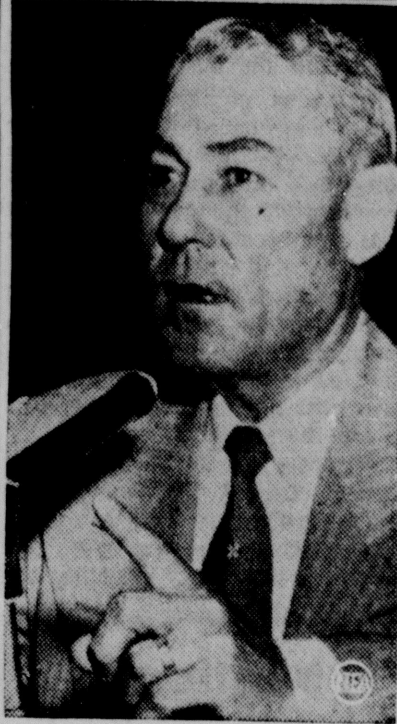

Mock Atom Bomb Sinks 4 Transports

ABOARD USS MT MCKINLEY, Near Iwo Jima (AP)—A simulated atom bomb exploded over this Iwo Jima-bound "invasion fleet" today, theoretically sinking four U.S. Navy transports carrying 2,000 men.

As a training device, the A-bomb simulator was pronounced a success by the Navy. As a spectacle it was only one step above a dud.

"It looked like a firecracker," said one of the hundreds of men lining the Mt. McKinley's rails.

A driving wind dispersed the blast cloud before it could form the mushroom shape of real atomic explosions.

Embarrassing Moment For Young Mother

One of those embarrassing moments occurred to a young mother with a six-year-old boy at the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra concert Monday night. During the period of silence after a performance of the guest artist, the little boy was heard to say, "I have had about all I can take," and promptly put his hat on and started out.

Six Doctors Talk Over Ike's Report

Dr. White and 5 Other Doctors Meet For Consultation

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's told him today he "should be able to carry on an active life" in the presidency "for another five to ten years."

This was reported at a news conference by Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, chief consultant on the Eisenhower heart attack case, after White and five other physicians concluded a new examination of the President.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Paul Dudley White and five other physicians consulted at the White House today preparatory to giving President Eisenhower a "more or less final" report on how his heart is standing up under the burdens of his office.

The medical conference got started a few minutes before noon (EST) and within five minutes of the arrival of White, Boston heart specialist.

White has been chief consultant on the case since the President suffered a heart attack last Sept. 24.

The consultations dealt first with analysis of new medical tests which Eisenhower underwent Saturday at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital here.

The team of six physicians arranged to report their findings to the President at 1:45 p.m. EST.

The White House said there was a possibility the physicians might confer with Eisenhower briefly in advance of giving him their report.

The expectation was that the physicians' findings would be made public sometime during the afternoon, probably at a news conference with White.

White flew here from New York. He told reporters at the airport that the physicians may make some "general recommendations" to Eisenhower but will not advise him on the biggest question of all — whether he should seek another term.

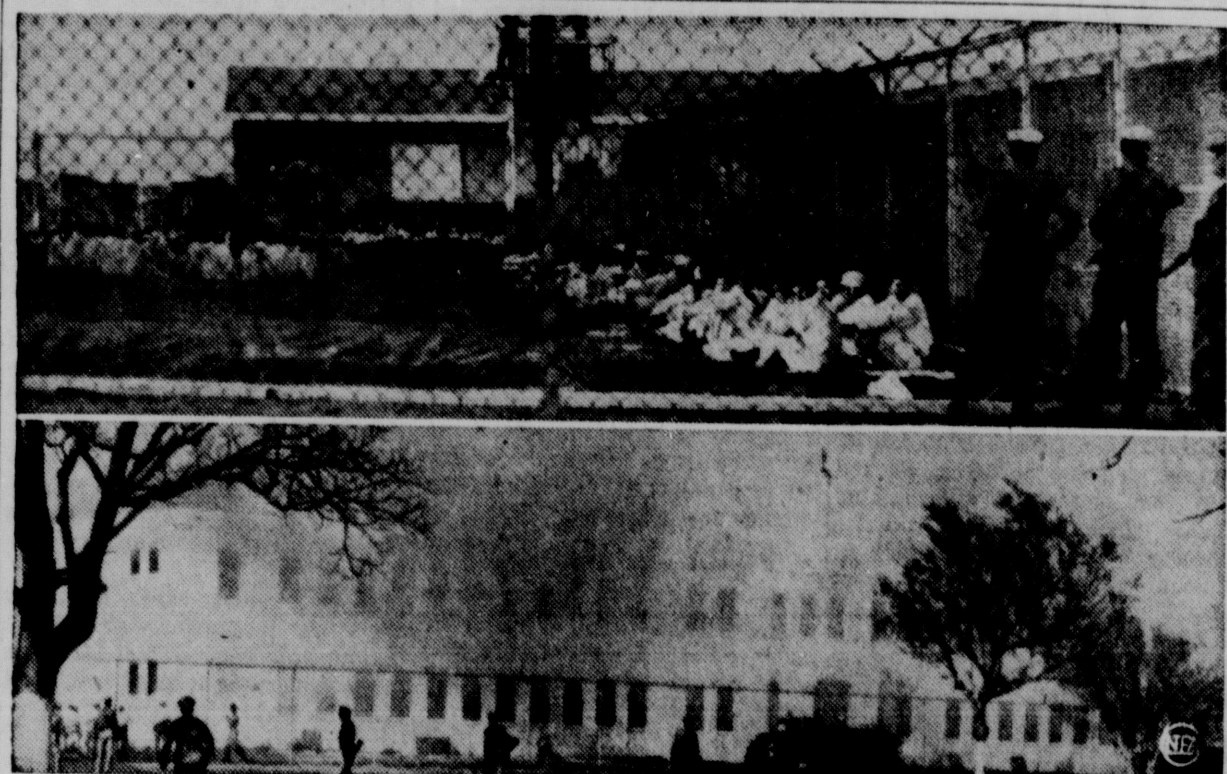

"His is still the choice," he said. "We will let him know what we find and perhaps make general recommendations, but his is still the choice."

Kruschev Lays Down 5-Point Foreign Policy at Communist Party Congress

Says Red Bloc Is Invincible, Peace Preferred

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev told the world today "there are only two roads, peaceful co-existence or war," and declared the Communist bloc is now invincible.

The Soviet Communist party boss pictured the Western position as weakening while the Soviet Union and its Red associates grow stronger. But the warning was accompanied by a statement that war is not inevitable.

Khrushchev spoke before cheering delegates at the 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist party in the Kremlin, the first such gathering of the post-Stalin era.

He laid down a five-point foreign policy in which improvement of relations with the United States, Britain and France was one key point. Maintenance of the "defense potential of the Soviet Union" was another. Khrushchev said Russia must not lag behind the Western powers in armaments.

"The principle feature of our epoch is the emergence of socialism (communism) from the confines of one country and its transformation into a world system," Khrushchev said.

"Capitalism has proved important to hinder this world historic process. The simultaneous existence of two opposed world economic systems, of capitalism and socialism, developing according to different laws in the opposite direction has become an irrefutable fact."

He said that violent revolution is not necessary now to bring about a socialist state.

The five principles of Soviet foreign policy outlined by Khrushchev were:

- "1. Respect for coexistence.
- "2. Strengthened relations with the People's Democracies (Soviet satellites).
- "3. Strengthened friendly relations with India, Burma, Afghanistan and countries not belonging to aggressive military blocs.
- "4. Work for better relations with the United States of America, Great Britain, and France in all fields especially economic, technical and cultural.
- "5. Remain vigilant while there are still people who wish to threaten peaceful coexistence and maintain the defense potential of the Soviet Union."

"We wish to be on good terms with the U.S.A." Khrushchev said in his keynote speech whose mild tone was in startling contrast to a savage attack he made in the Supreme Soviet recently. It also was mild compared to the belligerent attitude adopted by former Premier Malenkov when he made the opening address to the last Communist Congress in 1952.

Canadian Air Brings Colder Weather Tonight

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Cold Canadian air drove springlike weather out of Missouri and supplanted it with fog or rain in parts of the state today.

Colder weather hit the north and central portions today, and the Weather Bureau said it would cover most of Missouri tonight and tomorrow.

Fog enveloped the St. Louis and Kansas City areas and northern Missouri this morning. In South St. Louis and parts of St. Louis County visibility was cut to 20 or 30 feet.

During the night scattered showers fell in the southeast portion. Precipitation at Malden measured .08 of an inch and at West Plains .13.

Showers or thundershowers were forecast for the south and east sections this afternoon and tonight, with thundershowers locally severe in the southeast.

Light rain or snow may be expected tomorrow in central Missouri.

Low temperatures tonight are expected to dip to around 20 in the northwest and 40 in the southeast. The five-day forecast extending through Sunday calls for temperatures below normal in the northwest and near normal in the southeast.

Clamps Down on Transport Drivers—Traffic Commission Declines Idea of Special Fines Boxes

The Citizens Traffic Advisory Commission declined a suggestion Monday night that deposit boxes be placed in each block for payment of short-term fines or overtime parking but urged the Chamber of Commerce, which offered the suggestion, to consider setting up a downtown collection service to handle such fines.

A request for a loading zone in front of the Handley Window Co., 119 South Osage, was rejected on the basis of public use, but the firm was urged to submit a request to the City Council for a special loading zone on the basis of usage.

There is no charge for public loading zones, but a special loading zone, if granted, costs $25 for installation and $50 a year for maintenance.

The Commission also voted to remove all 15-minute meters except in front of the Post Office.

A new policy for handling cases of transport truck drivers who double park was announced by Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors after it was brought to the Commission's attention that such violations were in great number. Chief Neighbors said the firms for which the drivers work will be notified in writing to enlist their cooperation in warning their drivers, and a file will be kept so that second offenders may be spotted and dealt with accordingly. It was pointed out that the drivers must be dealt with individually, that the transport companies cannot be penalized.

The request for the deposit boxes for traffic fines was made by a representative group of the Chamber of Commerce comprised of Floyd Priddy, Chamber president, Harry Naugel, chairman of the Chamber's retail merchants committee, and Phillip McLaughlin, chairman of the Chamber's parking committee.

They said that out-of-town customers are being driven away by the embarrassment of having to go to the police station to pay the 25-cent overtime parking fines and that the deposit boxes would erase the embarrassment. McLaughlin said that Sedalia does not have adequate downtown off-street parking facilities and that it hopes to have these facilities some day. Until then, he suggested that the deposit box system be used.

Joseph Feuchter, Sedalia's traffic engineer answered that the 25-cent fine is really a favor offered by the Commission in an effort to promote good public relations, that otherwise the one dollar fee would have been made mandatory for all overtime violations, and the trip to the station is intended to impress upon the violators the need for compliance with the law. He also reminded that the one dollar fines may be mailed in, if the people do not want to take advantage of the convenience of the 25-cent fine or getting to the station within 30 minutes of the time the tickets are issued.

Feuchter said that many towns have experimented with the deposit boxes and later got rid of "please turn to page 4, column 2."

Seven Found Dead In Oklahoma Home

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The sheriff's office reported that seven members of one family were found dead today in their home, apparently the victims of asphyxiation.

The dispatcher said apparently a faulty stove caused the deaths. He identified the victims as the Smithhouse family and said at least three children were among the dead.

The family lived in a rural area northeast of Oklahoma City.

Wind Makes Navy Balloon Fly to Russia

Weather Balloon Reverses Direction To Soviet Siberia

TOKYO (AP)—A U.S. Navy weather balloon was radioing weather information from 30,000 feet over Soviet Siberia today after "wild and unpredictable" winds over the Aleutians reversed its course.

The Navy said the 40-foot plastic gas bag, which headed east across the Pacific after its launching Saturday night, now was traveling westward toward Russia at 100 m.p.h.

Because the high altitude jet stream in which the balloons travel almost always moves east, this was the first of 12 weather balloons launched by the Americans from Japan to go the wrong way.

The Air Force suspended similar launches from West Europe last week after the Soviet Union and other Communist countries complained they were being used to spy on them and were endangering their aircraft.

Tracked by its automatic radio transmissions, the runaway balloon made a 180-degree course change over the North Pacific island chain last night and crossed into Soviet territory over the Kamchatka Peninsula today.

Its position this afternoon was reported as 63 degrees north latitude, 145 degrees east longitude, over the east Siberian mainland about 200 miles north of the Sea of Okhotsk.

A Navy spokesman said the balloon was radioing "valuable" weather information on an area which "has hitherto been a blank to countries outside the Iron Curtain." But he added that the information was "not what we wanted."

Fred Hulse Appointed To Another 4-Year Term As Chairman

Fred B. Hulse, has been re-appointed General Chairman of the Missouri Bar Administration, for a four-year term according to notification received Tuesday morning from Chief Justice C. A. Leedy Jr. of Jefferson City.

Chief Justice Leedy in his notification to Hulse said "The Supreme Court yesterday (Monday) re-appointed you to a four-year term expiring April 1, 1960 as General Chairman of the Missouri Bar Administration."

The Bar Administration is an organization which enforces the court's rules as to the professional conduct of lawyers in Missouri.

Hulse came to Sedalia in 1940 to succeed the late E. W. Jones who was then general chairman. On April 4 he begins serving his fifth four-year term in the office.

Unwelcome Change

After a bright start, the day certainly turned dismal-looking, like a frown replacing a smile, and just as unpleasant.

Cloudy tonight and Wednesday; light rain or snow likely Wednesday; colder tonight; low tonight in lower 20s; high Wednesday in lower 30s.

The temperature at 7 a.m. was 30; 36 at 1 p.m. and 35 at 2 p.m.

South Korea Has Scarcity Of Leaders

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea, like many of the new-born republics of Asia, suffers from a glaring weakness—a scarcity of leaders.

Faced with the inevitable decision of finding a successor to President Syngman Rhee, Koreans are hard put to name a man who can begin to fill the shoes of the crusty old patriot who has led them since the country's founding in 1948.

Rhee has avoided naming an heir apparent and the opposition clings to the same leaders who have twice failed to oust Rhee at the ballot box. The opposition Democratic party, recently formed from various splinter groups, will try again this summer but even now its leaders seem convinced of Rhee's invincibility and will probably offer only a figurehead candidate for the presidency.

Korea's predicament is not unique. Who follows Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa? Magsaysay in the Philippines? Nehru in India?

Great emphasis is being placed here on the importance of the vice presidency. Under the revised governmental organization, the vice president would take over the chief executive's chair in the event of a vacancy. Previously, national elections would have been called in these circumstances.

Rhee has not declared he will try for the presidency again. But just about everyone says he will. The President will be 81 March 26, and to strangers, it is impossible to fathom the grasp he has on his 20 million people. To most of them, he is the only leader they know, the father of the Korean republic, the outspoken foe of the enemy which destroyed South Korea and the man who fought the Japanese from the first day they occupied Korea at the turn of the 20th century.

Perhaps a successor will be found in the group of military leaders who rank among the brightest—and certainly most powerful—men in South Korea.

Gen. Chung Il Kwon, the chief of staff, and Gen. Sun Yip Paik, the 1st Army commander, have disclaimed interest in the political arena. It seems logical to assume, however, that any candidate for office will have a soft place in his heart for the army.

Cohen Clear With Law Again After Paying Fines on Two Charges

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Mickey Cohen, who recently completed a federal prison term for income tax evasion, is square with the law again after pleading guilty to two misdemeanor charges and paying $75 in fines.

Police Chief August Kettman said Cohen stayed at the El Mirador Hotel under a fictitious registration and also failed to register as an ex-convict.

Municipal Judge Eugene Theriault fined Cohen $100 with a choice of 10 days in jail on each count, but he suspended $50 of one count and $75 of the other, with the proviso Cohen not violate the law for one year. Cohen paid the fines in cash.

Committee Postpones Trade Curb Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Investigations subcommittee has postponed hearings, which had been scheduled to start today, on reported easing of East-West trade curbs. Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) said preliminary closed-door inquiries have taken longer than expected, and it will be later in the week before the group can start taking public testimony.

City Prisoner Wants Refund on Ticket To Policemen's Ball

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Delbert Edwards wants to know if he can get a refund on his ticket to the policemen's ball.

The ball will be held Feb. 21, and Edwards, 34, won't leave city prison till more than a week later. He's serving a 30-day sentence for intoxication. He said he bought the ticket only a few minutes before his arrest Jan. 28.

Test Pilot Says Plane Is Most Unusual Flown

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Dick Elm said today the inflatable airplane developed by Goodyear Aircraft Corp. is the most unusual craft he's flown in the nine years as a test pilot for the company.

The plane, made of an experimental rubber-coated nylon fabric, can be deflated at home, packed into your car trunk and inflated at the airport.

Goodyear engineer Roger L. Wolcott said it takes less air pressure to inflate the balloonlike fabric than a standard automobile tire. The monoplane is made rigid by the inflation.

The single-seat, high-wing craft is powered by a two-cycle, power motor mounted on a tubular support above the fuselage and directly behind the wings. The only other metal supports connect the wheels and the pilot's seat with the fuselage.

The new plane resembles the pushertype craft of the World War I era or a glider.

"The plane flies much the same as any light plane," the 32-year-old Elm said. "By being seated at the front, however, I felt like a glider pilot."

Goodyear engineers do not expect to go into quantity production, although they think the rubber-nylon plane holds great promise for a variety of air services.

Firemen's Parakeet Fights Fire, Too

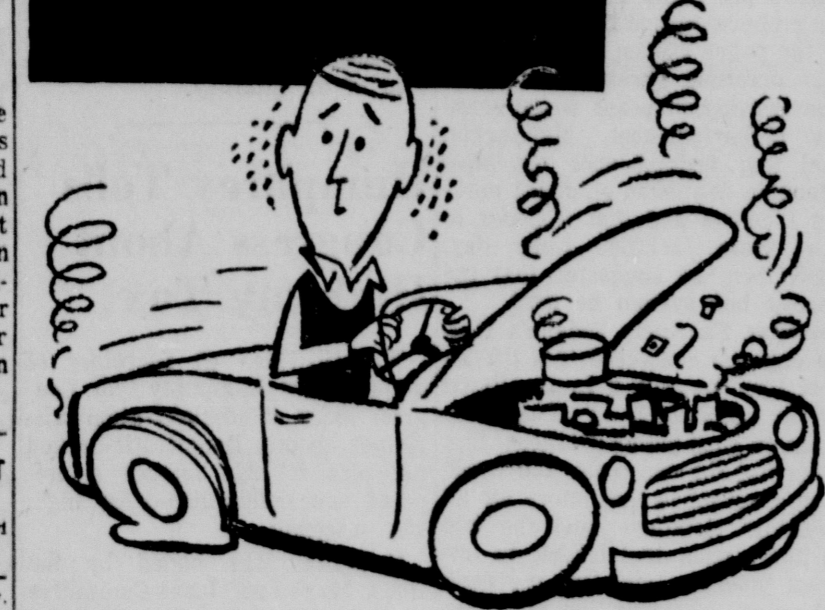

OMAHA (AP)—There's a parakeet named Pudgie who is a pet at a fire station here. And as smoke is a signal of danger to a fireman, so it is to Pudgie.

You just can't smoke in the station recreation room with Pudgie around. To disbelievers the firemen say "go ahead and light up a cigar. She lands on it and she pecks it into two parts. No use to blow smoke in her face, either. She's a true 'smoke eater' like her owners."

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP)—Eugene Tull, 85-year-old rancher, went into a mortuary and paid for his funeral. Then, said Coroner Ralph M. Simmons, he went outside and shot himself to death. A passer-by found the body lying in the mortuary driveway.

Death Toll In Europe Rises to 423

LONDON (AP)—The death toll in Europe's disastrous freeze - up soared to at least 423 in the West today. No letup was in sight in the heavy snows and bitter cold gripping the battered Continent.

Storms and ice packs brought peril to ships at sea.

The century's worst cold wave - now in its third week - stretched right down into the Mediterranean. It brought untold hardships to residents of southern areas unprepared for bitter weather.

These were the latest death figures from cold, fires, storms, avalanches and accidents attributed to the weather:

France 91, Yugoslavia 65, Italy 55, Britain 45, Germany 25, Greece 26, Denmark 23, Turkey 16, Holland 14, Portugal 14, Spain 12, Austria 11, Switzerland 10, Sweden 6, Belgium 4, and Tripoli 2.

U. S. Navy planes stationed near Naples joined the giant operation to bring relief to thousands of suffering Italians. They were to drop 300 food packages to south Italian villages and on Sicily.

Bad weather slowed the airlift of U. S. Army supplies from Germany to Italy. But 350 American soldiers toiled through the frigid night at Leghorn to ready a 25-car relief train for snow-paralyzed Sicily. It carried 21,000 cans of hamburgers, 11,000 cans of chicken, 16,000 sweaters and other food and clothing.

Ice stopped sea traffic between Sweden and Finland for the first time in 30 years. In the Baltic Strait between Sweden and Denmark, icepacks were slowly forcing two Swedish ships toward a minefield. An icebreaker was fighting to reach them.

The worst ice since 1947 isolated many Danish islands and a blizzard battered southern Denmark.

At Ranea, in north Sweden, three suns and a rainbow blazed in the sky at the same time. The weather bureau said the phenomenon, parhelia, was caused by the refraction of light in snow crystals.

A blinding snowstorm swept the Baltic. The temperature touched zero at Stockholm and 40 below in northern Sweden.

Troops and mountaineers battled through 12-foot snow drifts to seven Yugoslav villages buried in giant avalanches. A mercy train with doctors and food fought through snows toward the stricken areas in mountainous Macedonia.

South Germany was short of potatoes because of transportation tieups. Emergency fuel supplies were rushed to Dortmund in the industrial Ruhr after reserve supplies ran out.

US Police Captain Is First American Victim of Terrorism

CASABLANCA, French Morocco (AP)—A U. S. military police captain is the first known American victim of the terrorism which has wracked this French protectorate for more than two years.

Capt. Nelson Custer Brown, 42, a native of Green Forest, Ark., was shot and killed last night as he drove with his wife on the highway to the U. S. air base at Nouaceur, 15 miles south of Casablanca.

Brown stopped his car to offer help to another car apparently in trouble five miles south of Casablanca. As he stepped from his car, he was stoned and then shot through the head. He died instantly.

Mrs. Brown sped back to Casablanca and notified French police.

How Much Has Bus Boycott Hurt Bus Company and City?

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—How much has the 10-week-old bus boycott by Negroes here cost the bus company and the community?

Officials of the National City Bus Lines aren't making public the company's loss. The cost in terms of the community is much more important, and that isn't measurable either, civic leaders say.

But racial tension between white persons and Negroes has mounted. The Montgomery Advertiser recently put it this way:

"Never before in Montgomery has the word 'nigger' been used as frequently as in recent weeks."

The racial unrest in Alabama has pulled white persons and Negroes farther apart. Thousands of Negroes attend boycott meetings here, and officials of the pro-white Central Alabama Citizens Council say their membership has jumped from a few hundred to 12,000.

law. The grand jury is composed of 17 white members and one Negro.

On the other hand, five Negro women have filed suit in U. S. District Court challenging the constitutionality of the state and city statutes requiring separate seating facilities for white persons and Negroes on public vehicles.

Mayor W. A. Gayle said recently that the commission was through "pussefooting around" with the boycotters.

Boycott leaders, many of them ministers, have demanded bus seats on a "first come, first served" basis. They said Negroes would continue to sit from the rear toward the front but should not be required to stand if back seats aren't available.

But Gayle, pointing to the federal suit challenging constitutionality of the segregated seating laws, said the Negro leaders will be satisfied with nothing short of complete integration.

Despite the growing tension, there have been few incidents of violence here and no injuries.

Two weeks ago, small dynamite bombs exploded in front of the homes of two Negro leaders. A few buses were struck by bullets in the first week of the boycott.

Suggestions On Gown For Bride's Mom

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Those of you who have a daughter getting married this spring are probably already fussing about what you're going to wear in your very important role as much as you're fussing about your daughter's gown.

This is a problem that needs several columns for discussion, but this one will treat with the general ideas to keep in mind when buying your dress.

You do not have to wear a floor-length dress, even if your daughter does. It is more and more the habit today for the bridesmaids and rest of the wedding party to wear waltz-length or ballerina-length gowns, even though the bride may wear a dress with a full train.

You may decide as you see fit, but it is kind to take your daughter's wishes and the opinion of the mother of the groom into consideration. The two mothers should dress in the same length of gown.

If your budget is short, you may want to select something you can wear later. This is entirely acceptable; not all mothers of the bride must wear lavender. For afternoons, a velvet suit has been used. An embroidered satin suit is also good.

Try to coordinate the colors with the bridesmaids, the church flowers and the other mother, since you'll be standing together on several occasions.

Most important—be covered up. Even if you're a mother of the bride at 30, you must be decorous in the extreme. Even if you and your daughter feel like sisters, this is one occasion when this fact must be kept secret.

There's a money-saving difference between these two almost identical cotton dresses. The one at left was home-sewn from a pattern at a cost of $5.09. Dress at right, similar in size, style and type of material, retailed at $10.95. It took about three hours to make the dress at left, using 4½ yards of fabric.

Home Economists Make Tests On Costs of Home Sewing

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Correspondent

BELTSVILLE, Md. — (NEA) — This is where Uncle Sam has been ripping apart new dresses lately. And it's all for the sake of you do-it-yourself seamstresses.

Now you'll be glad to know that those dresses you've worked on have saved you money.

Home economists here at the Agriculture Department's Household Management Section have proved it, buttons to bows.

"We have established that home-makers can save money by sewing at home," says Miss Margaret L. Brew, head of the section.

She points out, however, that it's still up to the homemaker to decide whether the sewing savings are big enough to make it worth the time lost from other activities.

The experiments carried out here were confined to cotton dresses for street and house wear, which surveys indicate are often home produced. Here's how it was done:

First the home economists went out and bought five styles of cotton dresses most commonly sold to women in moderate income families. Then they tried making these same dresses themselves just as a housewife would do it.

"In order to duplicate the ready-to-wear dresses, an extra set of each style was purchased to provide patterns for the house dresses to be made in the laboratory," says Miss Brew.

"The dresses were ripped apart and patterns were made from the pieces using standard pattern paper and entering markings similar to those found in a commercial pattern."

The torn-up dresses weren't a total loss, however, if you're thinking of firing off a letter about waste to Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson.

The material was given a complete laboratory analysis for shrinkage, color fastness and strength. Then similar fabrics were purchased for the home-made dresses.

In some cases, patterns were purchased that were close enough to the ready-to-wear dresses to be used. All the garments were in size 14 and 20—the most commonly purchased sizes.

The sewing was done by seamstresses in a laboratory fixed up like a sewing room in a home. Total time to make the dresses ranged from about two and a half hours to three hours.

"This doesn't sound like long," says Miss Brew, "but it doesn't take into account interruptions an average housewife might have."

When the last stitch was completed and the results computed, it was found that direct savings for the street dresses came to about $5 each. This figures in the difference between the cost of the ready-to-wear dresses and the sum the homemaker would spend for fabrics, trimmings, belts, fasteners, thread, pattern and power to run the sewing machine and iron.

For the house dresses, savings were not as great. It took a little less time to make them compared to the street dresses, however.

"The money savings from home sewing of clothing were substantial in relation to the time spent, under the circumstances of this experiment," concludes Miss Brew.

"But the homemaker has to decide for herself how to spend her leisure hours most profitably. What we've worked out here will help give her a yardstick to go by."

action had been taken. It was agreed that the Council would again be pressed for action.

Feuchter said that he recommended a simpler cycle system of the traffic light at Broadway and Ohio, reducing stopping time and confusion, and the Commission agreed.

Feuchter also reported that 74 intersections now contain about 100 stop signs for which apparently there is no legal basis and that a traffic count is now being started at the intersections showing the greatest number of accidents. The rest of the stop signs, he said, should be eliminated. Other intersections showing a high accident rate will also be investigated even though they do not now have stop signs.

Cain reported that City Counselor William F. Brown is now studying the Commission's recommendations for one-way signs on the dual lanes of State Fair Blvd., West Third and West 16th to see whether such signs are necessary.

Emmet Sullivan asked Feuchter to study the advisability of restricting parking on the west side of Park because of the street's narrowness.

He also said, "I've been trying for 18 months to get some action on eliminating parking so close to the corner of Fourth and Kentucky west of the intersection on Fourth, and I haven't done any good yet. You can't see around that corner."

It was agreed that simply pointing the curb as a no-parking zone would remedy the situation.

Someone asked whether the City Council had ever done anything about the Traffic Commission's recommendations on truck routes and Cain answered that so far no

A 1953 Chrysler Windsor sedan was badly damaged by fire north of Sedalia on U. S. Highway 65 at the Cedar Creek bridge about 6:10 p.m. Monday when it caught fire from some undetermined origin. The car was driven by Ernest Cole, Brookfield, who got out of it without being injured.

Cole reported to the State Patrol he was driving south and he noticed fire at the rear of his car and started stopping. Seeing the rear part was blazing around the gasoline tank he got out and let it roll into the ditch just south of the bridge and on the west side of the highway.

Unable to extinguish the blaze Cole was picked up and came to Sedalia to the police station. In the meantime a farmer residing in the vicinity had called the police and they in turn notified the County fire department and state patrol.

The exterior of the car, inside the trunk and around the gasoline tank were blazing as the fire truck arrived on the scene. Two lines from the fire truck's booster tank were used and quickly extinguished the flames. Cole reported to the scene while the fire department was putting out the fire.

He reported the gas tank cap was not on the tank, unknown to him, and flames were shooting from the tank like a blow torch.

This Year Brings Accident Rise To Spoil Decrease During 1955

The reports of Capt. G. W. Pate, Troop A, and Capt. Paul E. Corl, Troop F, of the Missouri State Highway Patrol in giving their monthly and annual reports on accidents, traffic deaths, injured and property damage, show counties in this eight-county area exceeded the 1954 record in 1955. So far in 1956, more accidents, more deaths, but fewer injuries and slightly less property damage have resulted.

The eight-county area is comprised of Benton, Henry, Johnson, Lafayette, Pettis and Saline Counties under Troop A and Cooper and Morgan under Troop F.

For January, 1956, there were five more accidents, 80 compared to 75 in 1955; four more deaths, five compared to one; four less injuries, 56 to 60; and the property damage for 1955 was $41,555 while this year it was down slightly, being $41,080.

Closing the year of 1955, there were 1,225 accidents compared with 1,217; 58 persons killed as compared to 56 in 1954; 1,049 persons injured compared to 998 in 1955. Property damage was exceedingly high, being $742,729 as compared to $709,607 in 1954.

It was very interesting to note on the twelve month 1955 report that Pettis County was down in all departments, while starting 1956 off, the comparison was 13 versus 13 accidents; two killed already, none in 1955; six injuries to nine in 1955; and property damage $4,710 compared to $5,925 the previous January.

In December Benton, Henry, Lafayette, Pettis and Morgan counties had big property loss increases while Johnson, Saline and Cooper counties were slightly under the previous December report.

The yearly report shows the increase in property damage higher in Benton, Henry, Lafayette and Cooper, while Johnson, Pettis, Saline and Morgan were slightly under the 1954 losses.

Purpose of the meeting, which will be held annually at fashionable Lake Murray Lodge, is to provide an equal opportunity for those people interested in parks and recreation to participate and discuss mutual problems in their respective fields.

Rabbi Says Spectator Is Threatened With 'Mental Flabbiness'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"Mental flabbiness" threatens the "spectator mind" that feeds on a diet of radio, television and movies, says Rabbi Harold Weisberg, Washington, D.C.

"The spectator mind that accepts, instead of the athletic mind that questions," was deplored yesterday by the national director of adult Jewish education for B'nai B'rith.

He told a news conference that the adult Jewish education committee hopes to stimulate a practice of inquiring, challenging and analyzing "as Americans used to do in their pioneer days."

Lip Stretchers Are Stolen From Auto

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—If the thief who stole the Rev. Gerald Fisher's suitcase uses the loot, he will not be hard to catch.

The suitcase contained a number of large wooden discs used by women of the Ubangi tribe in Africa to stretch their lips to the size deemed glamorous by Ubangi men.

The clergyman told Springfield police his suitcase was taken from his stage wagon. Rev. Fisher displays the articles in religious lectures throughout the state.

Woman Asks Doctor For Affection; Takes Wallet With $160

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A woman entered Dr. Linus West's office and told him she wanted her teeth pulled. The dentist said he didn't extract teeth but would recommend a colleague who did.

Then, he told police, she threw her arms around him and said, "What I really need is affection."

Dr. West, who is 75, disengaged himself and told her, "I'm afraid I'm not interested." He gave her his colleague's name and she left.

A few minutes later he found his wallet, containing $160, was gone.

Dr. West said the woman was about 40. He couldn't give a detailed description of her except that she had six teeth in her upper jaw and eight in her lower.

Nixon Denies He Called HST 'Traitor'

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Nixon claims a "magnificent record" for the first three years of "what all of us hope will be eight years of the Eisenhower administration."

Nixon told the National Republican Club in a Lincoln Day speech last night:

"Our Republican administration is now proving, for the first time in nearly 30 years, that we can have prosperity without war; full employment outside of uniform, and security with regimentation and controls."

Speaking at the club's 70th annual Lincoln Day Dinner, he said the greatest advances in the nation to end racial discrimination "since the emancipation proclamation itself" have been made during the Eisenhower administration.

Nixon's speech contained barbs for three Democratic presidential nominee possibilities — Adlai E. Stevenson, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

As he arrived here by plane from Washington late yesterday, Nixon denied he ever had called former President Harry S. Truman a "traitor," as Truman had complained.

"I did not call Mr. Truman a traitor — absolutely not," Nixon told newsmen. Nor did he call the Democratic party "the party of treason" or question the loyalty of any of its members, Nixon added. "I have always said that there is only one party for treason in

Private Garcia Waits 10 Years For Duty Orders

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The Air Force is trying to find out what happened to orders for Pvt. Joe V. Garcia, 30, who has waited 10 years for word on where to report for duty.

Air Force officials in Washington have ordered Lackland Air Force Base officials to try to bring Garcia's records up to date to determine what action should be taken.

Garcia was stationed at Lackland for a year but in 1946 spent two months at Brooke Army Hospital convalescing from injuries received in a tavern fight.

He said when he returned to Lackland, his old outfit had been transferred along with his records and personal belongings. After three days of futile checking, a

Heart Fund Needs Support

An appropriate Valentine's gift on the day celebrated as such — February 14 — or thereafter may be one given to the annual Heart Fund drive this month.

President Eisenhower's illness has placed emphasis on heart-circulatory diseases much as President Roosevelt's illness did on polio for which millions have been raised to conduct research even though polio is not the killer that heart disease is.

Estimates indicate an average of 1,900 persons in Pettis County suffer from heart-circulatory diseases, and 248 died in 1954 from such afflictions. Nationally there are probably 10,000,000 constant victims of whom three-quarters of a million die annually.

Ninety per cent of the damage is done by three principal ailments — hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure and rheumatic fever. The latter affects 500,000 children.

Demand on charity dollars is tremendous, but they must be had. Out of the United Fund drive the Pettis County Heart Association's share is only $1,500 because the over-all quota fell far behind its objective. This part of the local Heart Association's share will be considered in lieu of a door-to-door canvass.

Officially the Heart Fund drive started Valentine's Day, which offers itself as a timely gift-giving day for deposits of coins in the plastic hearts found in many places throughout the county, or in coin cards which, too, have been made available for this purpose.

There are not many families who haven't felt the impact of losing one of their number stricken with heart disease, or experiencing the incapacity a seizure brings on. In memory of those dead and as encouragement to those surviving victims of an attack, a generous check may be mailed to the Pettis County Heart Council in care of Boyd Massey, 2342 West Third St., Sedalia.

Certainly more research and education is needed toward preservation of our national health. The Heart Fund needs it as much, if not more than all other agencies which depend upon charitable support to combat crippling and killing diseases.

Pressure on Eisenhower to Run Continues

WASHINGTON — The pressure on President Eisenhower, as he takes his final medical, is still continuing. The pressure to run comes from three general groups:

1. The palace guard — the boys in the White House who want to keep their jobs. They are just as ardent as the Democrats who worked under Roosevelt and Truman and who were determined that their boss must run again.

2. The big politicos — GOP leaders on Capitol Hill like Joe Martin plus GOP Chairman Len Hall don't see any way the party can do without Ike, and they demand that he run.

3. The business brain-trusters — up in New York men like Gen. Lucius Clay, former commander of American troops in Germany; Sidney Weinberg, head of the giant Wall Street firm Goldman-Sachs; and ex-Governor Tom Dewey, believe Ike is essential to save the peace and our economic way of life — plus their point of view regarding American business.

There have been sobering thoughts, however, since ex-Governor Oswald West of Oregon accused other Republicans of murdering Governor Paul Patterson of Oregon.

"The death of Paul Patterson was not only a tragedy," said ex-Governor West, himself a Republican. "It was murder. He was forced into a Senate race by selfish members of the Republican party imbued with an obsession to beat Wayne Morse."

Note — Governor Patterson had a heart condition. After deciding to take on the campaign against Wayne Morse he had a heart attack. Ike, thanks to outside pressure, had urged him to run.

Ike Fell In Trap

There was a good reason why Eisenhower held up his second reply to Premier Bulganin on a U.S.-Soviet friendship pact after firing the first reply back in Bulganin's teeth. He found he had fallen into a Soviet trap.

John Foster Dulles, as usual, had acted without consulting his advisers, especially astute U. S. Ambassador Chip Bohlen in Moscow. Instead, Foster acted as if Joe McCarthy was growling over his shoulder.

The trap Eisenhower fell into was that the Kremlin wants more than anything else to show us up as not wanting peace.

Most important popular development in Russia today, Ambassador Bohlen has advised, is that the Russian people have come to believe the Kremlin's peace propaganda. As a result, today they could not easily be stampeded into war.

In the past, the Kremlin has had the whip-hand in starting war. It has no Congress to consult, no critical newspapers to worry about, or commentators to goad it. War could have been declared in the past at the drop of a hat.

But since the Kremlin's peace propaganda has taken hold, sudden action would be difficult.

This was the reason for Bulganin's two friendship notes, namely, to trap the United States into rebuffing Russian friendship so the Kremlin can reverse itself and point out that the U. S. has spurned Russian friendship, that the U. S. wants war.

This is why our allies, plus skilled U. S. diplomats, wish Eisenhower had not been so hasty in slapping down the first Bulganin note. If he had waited a day or two to consult with Prime Minister Eden, he could have let Eden share responsibility for his slap-down. Or he could have waited longer to appear to give the matter more careful study.

That was why he waited longer to answer the second Bulganin note which the Kremlin,

Guest Editorial—

THE HOLLYWOOD (Fla.) SUN-TATTLER: We Need Taxes. Citizens — on the local as well as the national level — must realize that no governmental unit can perform a service without having that service paid for. True, there are some politicians who seek office with promises of "free services," but these promises are pure hokum.

If we want a governmental unit to collect our garbage, provide fire protection, police our streets, and to perform the many other tasks which are done daily, then we must make up our minds to pay for them — and to increase our payments each time a new service is added.

The alternative is for each citizen to provide these services for himself.

having scored in the first round for peace propaganda, fired back at Ike so quickly.

Ike's Success at Geneva

One of the most effective things Eisenhower did at Geneva, in the opinion of this observer, who was there, was to convince the people of France, Italy, Germany, Greece, et al, that the United States genuinely wants peace. Eisenhower played his cards perfectly, cut the ground out from under Moscow's continual claim that the U. S. wants war.

But today as a result of Bulganin's fast footwork the Dulles-Eisenhower eager-beaver rush into his trap, part of Ike's fine work at Geneva has been neutralized.

What Ike and Dulles did on the first note was to operate U. S. foreign policy as if Joe McCarthy was still growling over their shoulders. When the second note arrived, they finally realized that Joe's glowers are now feeble and faded, and that they had fallen into a neat Russian trap.

Those Israeli Raids

If the United States and its western allies hope to recoup leadership in the strategic Middle East, fast thinking is a necessary as clever thinking. During the latest United Nations discussions of the Israeli attack on Syrian forces near the Sea of Galilee, western thinking has been neither clever enough nor fast enough to compete with Soviet moves.

On three previous occasions the western members of the UN Security Council — including the United States — have voted for resolutions to "condemn" Israel. Each of these condemnations was voted against Israel for carrying out large-scale "retaliation" raids on Arabs living in Egypt's Gaza strip and in the Jordanian villages of Kibya and Nahhaline. When Syria brought Israeli's latest retaliation raid to the Security Council, she asked for sweeping action against Israel but the western diplomats ignored all suggestions for any kind of action when drafting the western resolution to "censure" Israel once again.

Before the western resolution was made public the Soviet Union put out its own resolution on the affair. The Soviets made it a special point to draft a resolution which seemed both responsible and reasonable. It did not call for Israel's expulsion from the UN — as first suggested by Syria — nor did it call for harsh Syrian-style economic sanctions. But it did take note of the fact that past condemnations of Israeli "retaliation" raids had not put an end to this policy, and held that Israel should therefore be required to pay fines or damages to Syria.

Western diplomats must have realized that it was not too bad an idea, under the circumstances, to levy fines against Israel. But they later maintained, in their Security Council speeches, that no machinery existed for carrying out such a plan and that they would therefore not deal with it in their censure resolution.

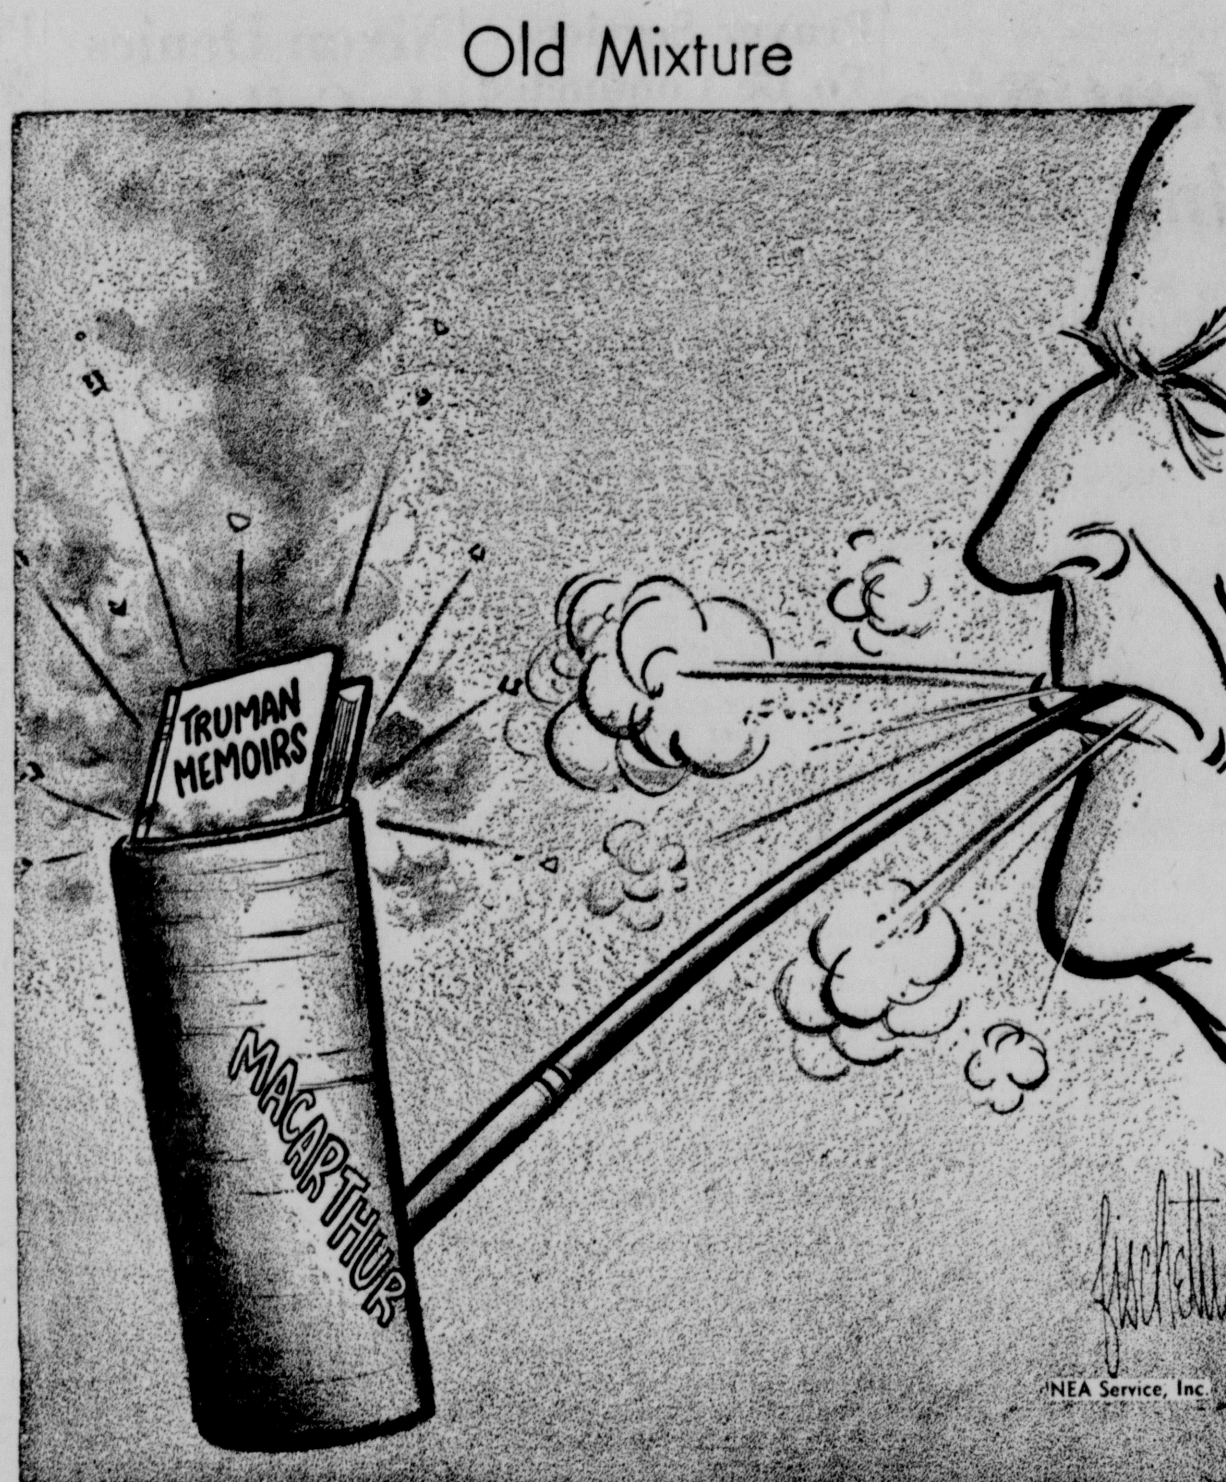

If this position appealed to Israel, it did not appeal to other Security Council members. Even Nationalist China's representative called upon Israel to "voluntarily" pay compensation for Syrian losses. Iran, a western ally and member of the Baghdad Pact, went even further and asked that the western draft resolution be amended to include mandatory payment of damages by Israel. Cuba, a very anti-Communist country (which even fought the "package deal" on membership before she took over her non-permanent Council seat this January) supported Iran.

The Soviet resolution differed little at all from the western resolution except in this matter of levying fines. The picture is unfortunately all too clear. In this case, the Soviets were allowed to assume leadership in suggesting policies which the western powers, for political reasons, did not dare espouse. Thus, some American allies, not so concerned with these particular politics, felt free to support the Soviet suggestion.

Must Have New Public Relations Man

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russians must have a new public relations man. Every move packs a propaganda wallop. They waltz up to the United States as if to shake hands and then sock with a fast left cross.

Their timing is good, as the dates show. They've got this country wondering where the next punch is coming from.

But there's no mystery about their propaganda which has two aims: to shake loose this country's allies by trying to fill them with misgiving about American intentions; and to win over the people of Asia, Africa and the Middle East with the idea Russia is a big brother, the United States the opposite.

Here are some dates: Jan. 25. While Britain's Prime Minister Eden was on his way here to meet with President Eisenhower—an event bound to capture world headlines — Premier Bulganin sent Eisenhower a personal message. Thereafter Eden's approaching visit had to share top headlines with the message. Secrecy surrounding it added to the interest. Russia didn't spoil the interest by revealing the contents.

Jan. 28. Eisenhower released both Bulganin's message and his own reply. Bulganin had proposed a 20-year friendship treaty. Eisenhower rejected the offer, suggesting Russia show its good intentions by deeds rather than words.

It's Finally Settled, That's Main Point In Gas Fight

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—The main point about the natural gas act amendment, exempting independent producers from price regulation by Federal Power Commission, is that it has at last been settled, after years of wrangling.

Only time will tell whether it has been settled right or wrong. But you won't be hearing much about it any more, as Congress tackles other more important issues in the Eisenhower program.

The dramatic preliminaries and sideshows really eclipsed the major principle at stake in this gas battle.

The lobbies of gas producing companies, fighting the lobbies of retail gas distributing companies, made it obvious from the first that millions of dollars were involved.

The naivete of the Nebraska citizen who tried to donate $2500 to Sen. Francis P. Case (R-SD) furnished an amazing touch. One of the first rules learned by all Congressmen is that they can't take campaign contributions from people outside their own state as a vote payoff. Experienced lobbyists know this, too, and don't even try it.

The gas amendment divided the Senate down the line of states that are big gas producers and states populated principally by gas consumers in big domestic markets.

There were exceptions, of course. Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), representing consumers, opposed the amendment. Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) inserted a statement in the back of the Congressional Record, favoring the amendment.

Sen. Paul Douglas (R-Ill.) proved again that no matter how well-prepared or well-intentioned, a three-day speech changes no votes and is a waste of everybody's time.

But to get the real perspective on this natural gas battle, it's only necessary to review the similar, tidelands oil rights case.

After a five-week floor fight in 1953, in which the future of the entire universe was made to appear at stake, Congress confirmed the coastal states' title to their off-shore mineral rights, within their historic boundaries. The federal government was given title to what lay beyond.

Once this was settled, the issue disappeared like magic. It has scarcely been heard of since. In the meantime, however, the federal government has held three sales of its rights, off Texas and Louisiana.

It has let 230 oil and gas leases and five leases for sulphur recovery rights. The first year's rentals paid to the federal treasury total 252 million dollars.

It is interesting to observe here that President Eisenhower's aid to education proposal this year calls for grants to the states of 250 million dollars a year for five years. So if the proposal by Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala.) and others had been adopted—to use tidelands revenues for aid to education in all states—the money would be in hand to pay for it.

In both the natural gas act amendment and the tidelands oil case, the producing states have gotten just what they wanted.

In the case of the natural gas act amendment, there have been arguments galore, both that it will result in higher prices to consumers, and that it won't. Nobody knows the answer to that one for sure.

But with the amendment passed, exempting independent producers from Federal Power Commission price regulations, the consuming public may have only the anti-trust laws to fall back on for protection, in cases prices go up.

here is one slight indication of the way things may go. It has been noted that some New York stock brokers have already issued market letters advising investors which gas producing company stocks stand to gain the most from passage by Congress of this new amendment to the Natural Gas Act of 1938.

It had been a long time since she had worn that skirt. Maybe her sister had worn it. Then she remembered that her sister never wore that particular skirt.

She didn't know whether to be glad she found the five dollars or sorry, because being an honest girl she didn't want to fail to do the thing she was supposed to do with that bill if it wasn't hers. After a while she figured it must belong to her and, of course, she could certainly use it, so she just considered herself five dollars to the good and spent it. — H. L.

The conversation drifted to filing systems and everybody seemed to have files that were a little mixed up all the time.

"We have a simple filing system at our office," one man commented, "a one-letter system, 'M' for miscellaneous"

After she hears the alarm at 5:30 a young girl, who must be at work at 7 a.m., shuts the bell off and takes a little catnap.

For several days her sister was ill and had to take medicine at 11:30 p.m. This particular night the girls had gone to bed early and the one who was sick set the alarm for 11:30.

The bell went off and the girl who has to get up at 5:30 woke up. She was so sleepy, so she turned over for her little catnap. Suddenly she woke up with a start. She looked at the clock. One of the hands on the clock was at 1, the other at 6.

"Five minutes past six," she gasped. "I knew I would do that one of these mornings."

She hurried into the kitchen to turn up the heat and light the gas burner. She looked up at the kitchen clock. The hands on the kitchen clock were just the same, one hand was at one and the other at six.

"Is that right?" she thought to herself in the daze of the early morning and still half-asleep. "Which hand is it, the long one or the short one that points to the hour?"

The clock ticked on and the minute hand moved a little, but she wasn't awake enough to remember. She debated with herself whether it was really five minutes past six or 1:30. She decided it was 1:30 and went back to bed, but her sleep was restless, she still wasn't certain what time it really was. She was so sleepy though she just took the chance. It spoiled her night to such a degree that she was sorry she didn't stay up when she got up at 1:30 because she was so sleepy at 5:30 she could hardly make it. And she had a mighty drowsy day after she did get up.

Ruth Millett Says—

When Ill Luck Strikes, You Can Make It a Friend

She was recovering from a serious operation when I went to visit her in the hospital. Yet she could not have been more at home entertaining me in her own living room.

In two short weeks her love of life, her curiosity, her compassion, and her interest in everything going on about her made her right at home in Room 207.

She knew all about all the patients on the floor. Indeed, she was so absorbed in their stories she hadn't a minute to spend talking about her own operation.

She had been up to the nursery floor and knew all about the new babies. She was well acquainted with two little premature stretching, squirming in incubators. She insisted on my going up to look at them before I left the hospital.

The nurses on her floor were so busy she let them do only the really necessary things for her. Little luxuries she turned down with a gay, "Go on and take care of some of those people who are really sick."

Another Visit Is Real Contrast

Her room was filled with potted plants and she had already figured where she was going to plant each one when she got home.

The books she had read she was ready to pass along with enough enthusiasm to make the next person anxious to read them.

She had stored up a number of amusing incidents. Though it hurt her to laugh, she could still make a guest laugh at her light hearted way of seeing hospital life.

Leaving her room I couldn't help but compare my pleasant visit and her pleasant stay with another patient I had visited just a week before.

The other patient had complained constantly. She was bitter about how she felt, how flat the food tasted, how disinterested the nurses were, and on and on and on.

It was a real contrast in the way people meet life's setbacks and pain. Some make friends with whatever situation they are in. Others fight each new situation.

We can choose which way we meet life. Isn't it strange we do not all choose to make ourselves at home with each new experience instead of acting like reluctant guests?

Capital Gains Have But One Fault--Taxes

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—One of the more pleasant roads to riches is paved with capital gains. That is, it's pleasant until April when it comes time to pay the tax on them.

Capital gains are what you have if you sell your house for more than it cost you, or sell stocks for more than you paid for them some time back.

Only nine countries tax short-term capital gains from stock sales, and only three of these tax long-term gains. The United States is one of those doing both.

Our capital gains tax is blessed or blasted by different groups of tax payers. Here are their divergent views:

Some aim their investments chiefly at building up capital gains to avoid income.

Some hold onto stocks rather than pay the tax on the profits they would show from a sale.

Some refrain from investments, saying the tax would just whittle down any profit although they'd still have all the risk.

Stock brokers, who make a living from commissions on the purchase and sale of stocks, blast the capital gains levy as discouraging trading and keeping the stock market "thin" (a small supply of stocks available for trading).

And people who live entirely on wage or salary and who must hand part of it over as income tax are likely to feel that those who live on their gains from playing the market should bear some of the tax burden. The income-only boys may ask: Why a lower tax on "unearned" gains than on "earned" returns from labor?

The reason some folk deliberately seek capital gains—buying a stock with a chance to increase in market value rather than one paying a good dividend—is this: The capital gains tax on property held more than six months goes as high as 25 per cent. But any of the many stockholders in an income tax bracket higher than 25 per cent would benefit more from having a capital gain than from a dividend that would add to his income. The top individual tax rate is 91 per cent.

There are divergent views on how much the capital gain tax discourages stock trading.

Most brokers stress that people are disinclined to sell their stock when it means handing a fourth of the profit over to the government—or more if they held the stock less than six months and are in any but a low-income bracket.

But some brokers point out that the profit on which people dislike to pay a tax exists only on paper until the stock is sold and the gain taken. And paper profits have been known to blow away, or even to turn into paper losses. The Wall Street maxim is: You don't go broke taking a profit.

Housewife Released From Jail 'Vacation'

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Mrs. Tillie Hansen, 58-year-old housewife who said she had a "wonderful time" during a week's "vacation" in jail, was released yesterday.

Mrs. Hansen was jailed Feb. 6 when Mrs. Alvin Harry invoked an old Wisconsin statute to compel payment of a $150 judgment awarded her 15 years ago after a Parent-Teachers Assn. quarrel.

A settlement was reached yesterday and Mrs. Hansen freed. The amount of the settlement was not made public. Costs and interest had increased the $150 figure to $295.

"I had a wonderful time here," Mrs. Hansen said as she left jail. "I wouldn't mind staying longer."

Mr. and Mrs. Harry paid Mrs. Hansen's $23 jail board bill. The couple's attorneys said the bill was taken into account in the final settlement.

Longest Auto Strike On Continent Ends With New Contract

TORONTO (AP)—The 148-day strike at General Motors of Canada—longest auto strike in North America—ended last midnight with signing of a contract running to Aug. 1, 1958.

The settlement provided hourly wage increases of 18 cents over the next two years, supplemental layoff pay similar to the plans in the U. S. auto industry and an improved health insurance program with company and workers sharing costs. Previous average wage was $1.66 hourly.

The strike of 17,500 workers started Sept. 19 in the five GM plants at Windsor, Oshawa, Toronto, St. Catharines and London.

Louis G. Seaton of Detroit, head of GM's Labor Relations Department, and George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers, signed the new contract.

"Our Canadian companies look forward to resuming production as quickly as possible," Seaton said in a statement. The company produces automobiles, Frigidaire appliances and diesel locomotives. Workers still must ratify the contract. Burt said membership meetings would be called as quickly as possible. He estimated all benefits would average 25 cents an hour.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Dr. Salvador Mejica, San Francisco dentist, is going to Saudi Arabia to treat Prince Abdullah Faisal and other members of the royal household.

Dr. Mejica's association with the Arabian family dates to 1945. Crown Prince Faisal, the father of Prince Abdullah, was in San Francisco for the United Nations conference and developed a tooth ache. Dr. Mejica's work so pleased the royal family that members have visited him when they came to San Francisco.

Recently, when Prince Abdullah's teeth gave him trouble, he asked the Arabian Embassy in Washington to send Dr. Mejica.

Dusek Meets McIntyre For Regional Title

TONIGHT'S WRESTLING CARD
In the Sedalia Armory—8:15

Men's Feature Match
Joe Dusek, 233, Omaha, vs. Red McIntyre, 220, Ottumwa, Mo. Best two out of three falls to a finish; no time limit.

Girls' Feature Match
Penny Banner, 140, St. Louis, vs. Carol Cook, 138, Columbus, Ohio. Best two out of three falls, or a 60-minute time limit.

Added Heavyweight Match
Richard Brown, 232, Overland Park, Kan., vs. Frank Altman, 235, Kansas City, Mo. One fall, or a 30-minute time limit.

Matches sponsored by Pettis American Legion Post 16.

"Joe Dusek cannot run out the timekeeper's stopwatch this time."

That was the comment of William "Red" McIntyre, the confident Ottumwa, Mo., heavyweight wrestler who returns to Armory ring action tonight.

McIntyre is pitted against the villainous Nebraska in a no-time-limit showdown battle for regional heavyweight supremacy. Dusek will be staking his unbeaten record in the important clash.

A capacity crowd turned out to welcome McIntyre to the local arena two weeks ago. The crowd was not disappointed by what it saw for the fiery Missourian lashed back against Dusek's roughing measures with the same fury for which another state star—Ray Eckert—became so widely known here. It was Dusek who went on the defense in the closing minutes of that one-hour battle.

To avoid the possibility of another deadlock, all time limit barriers have been lifted for tonight's wrestle to a finish. It's McIntyre's big chance to install himself as the No. 1 heavyweight for the five-state area. And the red-haired speedster is certain to make the most of his opportunity.

Dusek soared to the front locally when he tumbled Kansas' Bob Orton from the region's unbeaten ranks a month ago. It was clearly apparent in Joe's first clash with McIntyre that Joe got more than he had bargained for. McIntyre was equal to all roughing attacks which Dusek attempted. Red's counter-offense won the plaudits of the huge crowd and the Ottumwa lad is now basking in fans' favor.

Penny Banner of St. Louis makes her bid for a spot in the nation's top ten when she takes on Ohio's Carol Cook in tonight's girls' feature match. Penny has amassed the longest victory skid—164 triumphs—of any feminine wrestler to emerge out of the Middle West since the heyday of Mildred Burke, who held the women's world title for more than a decade.

Penny is trying for a crack at June Byers' title and a victory over Miss Cook may turn the trick for the attractive St. Louis star. Miss Cook is one of the roughest wrestlers in the feminine ranks. She can toss forearm smashes with the same proficiency as some of the male headliners.

Flying drop kicks and tackles are Penny's specialties. Her speed in the ring borders on the phenomenal side.

An inter-state clash between Kansas' Richard Brown and Missouri's Frank Altman will open the program at 8:15. The Armory doors and box office will open at 7:15.

World Record Holder Announces Intention To Retire After Year

TOLEDO, Ohio, (AP)—Harrison Dillard, holder of many sprint and hurdle records and winner in two Olympic Games, says he will retire from competitive running after this year.

Dillard, 30, said last night the gathering years make it unlikely he was going to get any faster. He indicated, however, he hopes he has at least one more world record performance in his system.

"Either Lee Calhoun will push me to a world's record, or I'll push him to one," he predicted.

Calhoun, from North Carolina college, tied two world records held by Dillard this season and beat him in an indoor meet at Philadelphia recently.

Dons Open Two Week Schedule On the Road

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—College basketball's nomads, the University of San Francisco Dons, open a two-week "road schedule" tonight at San Jose State in search of their 45th straight triumph.

The Dons, No. 1 team and toughest defensive club in the country, actually play all their games on the road because they have no home court. Their San Francisco dates customarily are played at dozy Kezar Pavilion, which seats some 5,000, or the cavernous Cow Palace, which accommodates over 14,000.

The "trip" opening tonight for the Dons ends in a fortnight when they take on College of the Pacific at Kezar. After San Jose, the schedule sends them to a neutral floor at Richmond, Calif., for a Friday game with St. Mary's, the only California Basketball Assn. member they haven't trounced already, and to Santa Clara Feb. 24 for a return game. In between the players will come home for classes.

Xavier topped the Cardinals to their second defeat in 21 games by a stunning 99-59 margin last night. The shocker came hours after Louisville, which threatened to make hash of the NIT entries before the tourney got under way, accepted a bid to the Madison Square Garden shindig next month.

The Xavier victory set up a tangled triangle among the NIT clubs: Louisville, whose 19-1 record earned the No. 4 spot in this week's Associated Press poll, is the only club to beat Dayton, No. 2 in the poll and the NIT favorite, and Dayton, in turn, has beaten Xavier.

Dayton gets a return crack at Louisville Friday, while Louisville gets a second shot at Xavier Feb. 29 and Xavier, now 14-6, gets another stab at Dayton Sunday.

All of the other ranked teams in the AP poll retained their prestige last night except for Oklahoma City, The 14th-ranked Chiefs, fishing for a postseason tourney berth, were dumped to their fifth defeat in 21 games 70-46 by Drake, Illinois, No. 3 in the poll, had a breeze pasting Michigan 89-66 to remain unbeaten atop the Big Ten while runner-up Iowa, ranked 15th, shoved Purdue out of the title picture 88-75.

Vanderbilt, No. 6, thumped Tulane 74-67 to keep a second-place tie with seventh-ranked Kentucky, which whipped Mississippi State 86-63, in the Southeastern Conference. Alabama, ranked eighth, stayed unbeaten in the SEC by Wallop Florida 109-74. Holy Cross, ranked 16th and also looking for a tourney bid, rallied to defeat Notre Dame 84-72 for an 18-3 record.

Xavier put the skids under Louisville early, leading 41-27 at the half. Jim Boothe, just 5-7 hit 21 points for the Musketeers, who stopped Louisville's Charlie Tyra with 18.

Illinois made it 14 in a row as George Bon-Salle, 6-8, and Bill Riddle, 5-9, each scored 25. Oklahoma A&M led by V. R. Barnhouse with 22, stayed in the Missouri Valley Conference race with 70-48 crusher against Detroit. West Virginia took sole possession of the Southern Conference lead as Hot Rod Hundley scored 38 in a 105-90 decision over William & Mary.

NIT Judges Get Reprieve From Bicarh

By ED WILKS

The gentlemen who pick the teams for the National Invitation Tournament can forget about that bicarb for the moment. Xavier of Ohio has come up with some preventive medicine—a slambang upset of Louisville—to balance the NIT entry list.

Riddles About Two British Diplomats Are Not Answered

MOSCOW (U.S.)—Nearly five years of mystery surrounding the whereabouts of former British diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean have been lifted in the shadow of the Kremlin. But most of the riddles were not answered.

The Russians staged a dramatic appearance of the two turncoats Saturday in the National Hotel, three days before the opening of the Soviet Communist party's 20th congress. Two British and two Soviet newsmen were summoned to their five-minute "press conference."

Immediately after, the two were driven off into the night. They left unanswered a host of questions:

What underground route carried them through the police nets of Europe? What secrets did they give the Russians? And what world events did this knowledge set off? Did it cause the Chinese Reds to enter the Korean War? Why did the Russians remain silent so long, then choose this time to disclose their whereabouts? What are they doing now and how are they living?

Burgess and Maclean said in a prepared statement they had been Communists since their days at Cambridge University but denied they had been secret agents as charged last year by the British.

They said they had fled to Russia "to make our contribution to a policy aimed at achieving greater mutual understanding between the Soviet Union and the West."

They charged that a "small but powerful" group in the West had opposed a mutual understanding. They particularly criticized U. S. foreign policy.

Maclean and Burgess slipped across the English channel on a small steamer in May 1951 and disappeared. It seemed clear they had vanished behind the Iron Curtain but Soviet officials blandly denied knowledge of their whereabouts.

Maclean had been head of the American Department of the British Foreign Office. Burgess, earlier with BBC and the British Secret Service, was second secretary of the British Embassy in Washington.

Both were in close touch with suspicious at the leak of secrets to Moscow, ordered Maclean questioned.

Maclean's American-born wife, the former Melinda Marling of Chicago, followed her husband to Russia in 1953 with their three children. Mrs. Maclean is the daughter of Francis N. Marling, advertising manager of the Pure Oil Co.

A New Mother Welcomes the Loan of Baby Items and Clothes That Children Outgrow

New mothers heartily welcome those used, but clean, baby items your child has outgrown. Particularly helpful are the big, expensive ones such as play pen, carriage and stroller. Carriage (left) is cleaned with thick suds and rinsed with a sponge, then

By BETSY WADE
NEA Staff Writer

Mothers want their babies to be admired as the most beautiful in the world. It's not vanity—it's a healthy pride in a remarkable achievement.

To this end she collects plushy blankets, sweaters no bigger than a doll's, little suits and a handsome carriage to wheel her achievement in.

When these things become outgrown, but by no means worn out, she wants to pass most of them on. Not the heirloom christening suit, to be sure, but all the useful and cute gifts. Most women do this on you-return-it-when-you're through basis so that a crib that has done the rounds in a town may return to roost for the offspring of the baby who first used it.

The kinds of things women are eager to borrow from one another include: carriages, playpens, strollers, bassinets, sterilizers, cribs, undershirts, nighties, socks, sweaters, cap and bootie sets, bassinet and crib sheets, carriage blankets, pram suits, snowsuits, bunnings, suits and dresses.

Any of these things, if borrowed in good condition, can generally be returned in almost the same condition for the next baby. True, undershirts get hard wear, but they are quickly outgrown in the early months.

Not so good for lending are: diapers, shoes, crib mattresses, big blankets (your own baby will want his for some years), nipples, sufficed fabric toys and personalized silverware.

Lending needs to be done with tact. Every first-time mother has a half-dream of all-new things for her all-new baby. If she is wise enough to see the good sense in a loan, she deserves credit. But lend her things that look as new as possible.

Linen, little blankets, sweaters and other wearing apparel should be given a careful wash and where it's necessary, be blocked. If you send along the cardboard shape, the new mother will appreciate it. Stains should be removed and missing ties replaced. Bindings on carriage blankets should be ironed to keep down the passed-on look.

Toys, carriages, cribs and what not should be scrubbed off with thick, hot soapsuds, sponged with a little clear water and dried. A coat of lead-free paint may be called for here and there where baby's gnawed.

For those mothers who have themselves known the real blessing of useful, clean, passed-on baby things, the fun of giving them to another is worth the trouble.

ASC Farm Program—

Official Announces Results Of Conservation Program

Murray C. Colbert, chairman of the Missouri State ASC Committee, announced today the result of farmer requested program assistance under the 1956 Agricultural Conservation Program. This report is based on requests received in the 114 county ASC offices in Missouri by Dec. 20, 1955. This was the deadline established for acceptance of timely filed requests and the county ASC committees used the funds available for cost-sharing under the 1956 ACP in approving practices requested by this deadline.

According to Colbert, 69,143 Missouri farmers registered their intentions of participating in the 1956 ACP. The cost-share value of these requests amounted to $18,813,000 which represents only about 50 per cent of the total cost of the practices planned for completion under the program. This compares to the state allocation of $3,781,000 which was distributed to the counties in Missouri to provide cost-sharing for needed conservation practices which have been approved for use in Missouri.

The State ASC Committee authorized each county to inflate their county ACP allocation by not more than 25 per cent since past records indicate that each year some farmers fail to complete practices approved for their farms. The authorized inflation is intended to offset cancellations resulting from non-performance or other causes.

County and community committees in most counties were required to make considerable adjustment in the amount of cost-shares involved in farmer requests to come within the limitations of available ACP funds as evidenced by the figures quoted above.

Colbert stated that any bonafide farmer in Missouri may still request cost-sharing for needed conservation practices. However, they will be approved for cost-sharing only if funds become available as the result of non-performance of approved practices. Detailed information concerning the current program may be obtained at any local ASC office, according to Colbert, and he suggests that farmers who have been approved for cost-sharing under the 1956 ACP should complete their practices and report performance to the local ASC committee as soon as possible.

US Agriculture Announces New Corn Allotments

A 1956 corn allotment of 43,230,543 acres in 840 commercial corn counties had been announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Seventy-one of the commercial counties are located in Missouri.

In 1955 the corn allotment was 43,842,697 acres in 805 counties in 21 states. For 1956, 37 counties have been added to the commercial county list and 2 have been removed, making a net gain of 35 counties.

Murray C. Colbert, chairman of the Missouri State ASC Committee, explains that a commercial corn county as defined by law is one that, during the ten preceding calendar years, has produced an average of 450 bushels of corn per farm and at least four bushels per acre of farm land in the county. Also included are bordering counties having minor civil divisions which are likely to produce the indicated amounts in 1956. Corn grown for silage is not included in the determination.

In Missouri, 71 counties are designated as commercial corn counties for 1956. Pettis is one of these counties. The newly designated counties are Benton and Cole.

In commercial corn counties Chairman Colbert explains, corn price support is available to corn growers who do not exceed the corn acreage allotments established for their farms. Price support, to be announced soon, will be between 90 and 75 per cent of parity. Price support also is available in noncommercial counties but at three-fourths of the rate in commercial counties. Corn acreage allotments are not in effect in non-commercial counties.

Colbert explains that farm allotments generally will be lower this year, than last because the acreage allotment for the commercial corn area is lower, due to larger current supplies as related to prospective demand. County and individual farm allotments, however, do not necessarily conform to the 15 per cent reduction in the national allotment, due largely to the variations in corn acreage on farms and in counties during the past five years.
